New Medical Winter School: MedWin 2025 in Germany

Programme Overview

The MedWin of the University of Rostock (Germany) will take place for the first time in 2025. The event is a jointly presented initiative of Brown University and the following local partners: the Institute of Anatomy, the Collaborative Research Center (SFB 1270) EElectrically Active ImplaNts (ELAINE), and the Centre for Transdisciplinary Neurosciences Rostock. The one-week program is dedicated to the human brain – a topic of great importance!

Topic

Most of us are dedicated to research to improve our understanding of diseases and to derive new treatment options for patients. Even when using animal models or less complex systems like cell cultures, a particular understanding of the structure of the human brain is of great importance. This is precisely where our Winter School MedWin comes in.

Time

March 22 – March 30, 2025 (1 week)

Target Group

Medical Students in higher bachelor semesters to PhDs with an interest in neuroscience

Program

At the heart of the Winter School is the dissection of human brains and the assessment of the brain's histological structure. These learning units are complemented by lectures and discussions on highly relevant neurological diseases. A key focus is modeling and precisely simulating the neuronal effects of electrical implants that are already clinically applied to patients with Parkinson's disease. The Winter School is a chance to meet experts in this field and discuss future visions with them. The event week is rounded off with a visit to the capital city, Berlin, as well as an unforgettable night at the Rostock boat hotel "Likedeeler". The schedule will be updated on our website.

Fees and Expenses

The program is free of charge.
Tuition and accommodation are covered.

Certificate

Certificates of regular attendance are awarded to each student
